FY2022 ANNUAL REPORT
7-1-21 TO 6-30-22

Dear Friend,

2022 marks a significant milestone in our history – 20 years working within marginalized communities in the developing world to establish permanent safe water systems and health and hygiene education programs that bring health, hope, and opportunity to children and adults for generations to come.

The driving force these 20 years was and still is Christ's call to us to demonstrate his love and share the Good News by addressing the human suffering imposed on individuals and communities by the scarcity of safe water. This mission, enabled by your faithful, passionate support, provides women, children and men practical, daily support to help them thrive physically and spiritually. By removing the health, economic and spiritual burdens of unsafe water, hundreds of thousands of beautiful people now experience daily life differently, with more hope and more freedom to learn, love, work, and pursue their God-given dreams.

On behalf of Healing Waters International, the communities we serve, and each life you have invested in, THANK YOU for your prayers, your incredible generosity and longstanding partnership in this mission.

With your continued support, we are confident that together we can continue to accelerate our efforts in order to reach more people in the next 10 years than we have in the first 20. One million people are within our reach and awaiting our arrival with the gift of safe water and living water – Lord willing let's press forward to show up in their communities before it's too late!

Blessings,

Key Moments in Our History

2002

A Ministry of Reconciliation

Established in 2002 by founders Tom and Dana Larson following a 5-year journey that saw clean water act as the transformative agent to restore the physical, social, and spiritual health of La Victoria Dominican Republic, Healing Waters set out to replicate our small water enterprise model throughout the country and established a small team of in-country staff.

2004

Expansion to Mexico

In 2004, encouraged by the impact in the DR, a major individual donor funded expansion into Mexico's poorest state, Chiapas and a local team was hired.

2006

On the Move in Central America

In 2006, with seed funding from Compassion International, Healing Waters expanded operations into Guatemala and again, established a local in-country team. As operations continued to grow, critical investments from a key foundation partner were instrumental in fueling capacity building, curriculum & program development, and water project expansion to foster new strategic growth and partnerships throughout Guatemala, Mexico, and the Dominican Republic.

2012

The Republic of Haiti

In 2012, driven by strategic partner growth, Healing Waters once again expanded operations by staffing a local team to serve the people of Haiti.

2013

A New Frontier

In 2013, Healing Waters formed a strategic partnership with Jibu to equip emerging market entrepreneurs to create affordable access to drinking water throughout East Africa.

Scaling Operational Capacity

Investments in technology, personnel, and operational scalability began to drive significant improvements in capacity - allowing us to more than double the number of people reached daily from 139k in 2015 to over 350k in 2021.

TODAY

Solving the Worlds Toughest Water Problems

HWI engineers and water technicians are addressing the world's toughest water problems - designing and implementing community-wide water infrastructures that remove high-risk contaminants - making safe water accessible, affordable, and sustainable to the most remote and marginalized people groups.

Schools as the Conduit to Community-wide WASH Interventions

In 2020, HWI launched a new operational strategy in Mexico focusing on schools as the conduit to community-wide WASH interventions. We are partnering with several school districts in the Sierra of Chiapas to bring affordable safe drinking water to entire rural communities by establishing water treatment and distribution systems in each community's primary school. This approach not only creates strong community engagement – because the primary school is the only public social entity in most of these communities and most families have children in attendance – but also guarantees that children have all the safe drinking water they need on-site during their studies.

Each project is a cooperative effort between Healing Waters, the superintendent of the local school zones of the Sierra District, local municipal leadership, and the Secretariat for the Sustainable Development of Indigenous Peoples (SEDESPI).

To date, the team has implemented 15 school-based interventions throughout the region and a scalable region-wide strategy is emerging with a vision to implement community-wide safe water access and health education through existing school infrastructure in 80-100 communities of the Sierra over the next 3-5 years.

Central America >

The Dry Corridor - Land of Opportunities

Several consecutive years of erratic weather including torrential rain and flooding followed by months-long drought continues to devastate rural populations and threaten water sources throughout the Dry Corridor, comprised of Guatemala, Honduras, El Salvador, and Nicaragua.

Over the last two years, our Guatemala operations have seen a boom of activity that only seems to be growing. Partners such as Mercy Corps, ADRI, FEDECOCAGUA, and Rotary are investing heavily in HWI's community WASH interventions and, with this, regional synergies and scalable interventions are emerging.

As part of this season of growth, several of our partnership and networking opportunities are moving into Honduras, El Salvador and Nicaragua - where we hope to continue to expand our reach and impact.

To date, Healing Waters has implemented over 100 projects across Central America from our base of operations in Guatemala. With our proven track record, in-country resources, and established relationships within the region, Healing Waters is uniquely positioned to implement scale WASH interventions with key strategic partners throughout the region.

Dominican Republic >

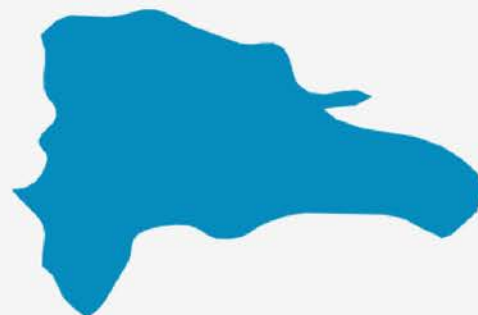

20 Years and 1 Billion Liters Later

In 2002, founders Tom and Dana Larson answered a call to relocate to the Dominican Republic to support a sister church in La Victoria, Santo Domingo. 20 years later, that step of obedience serves as an origin story for Healing Waters International that has resulted in over 80 projects throughout the country serving more than 115,000 individuals daily with safe water. To date, those projects have distributed more than 1 billion liters of safe water and continue to employ nearly 40 individuals.

HWI has been recognized as influential seed planters for the country's empowerment in local, private-sector water solutions, and today over 1,000 registered small business have reached over 95% of the population with affordable safe drinking water. Given this progress, our efforts in the region remain focused on supporting and maintaining existing project sites to ensure they continue to sustainably serve the nearly 23,000 families living in these communities.

Nearly 90 community sites serve over 115,000 individuals daily with safe water.

Weathering the Storm

Haiti has a tumultuous history and recent years have been no exception. In August of 2021, a 7.2 magnitude earthquake crumbled houses, schools, and businesses – causing more than 2,000 deaths and injuring more than 12,000.

Haiti's Civil Protection Agency estimates that, on average, five to seven times more homes were destroyed in rural areas than in urban ones. In the hard-hit departments of Grand'Anse, Nippes and Sud—all located on the Southern coast—more than 60 health facilities and some 137,585 homes have been damaged or destroyed.

Thanks to a substantial response from giving partners following the earthquake, and ongoing support from partners with a heart for the region, our Haiti team provided immediate support to more than 16 sites in the southern peninsula following the earthquake and is mobilizing a long-term intervention in the South.

Several initiatives planned for September thru February were postponed as a result of the earthquake and subsequent increases in violence, political unrest, gas shortages, and supply chain disruptions. By God's grace, the team has experienced recent breakthroughs and continues to work alongside Compassion International and other strategic partners to address the great many needs in Haiti.

East Africa >

A Dry and Thirsty Land

In 2013, Healing Waters formed a strategic partnership with Jibu to equip emerging market entrepreneurs to create affordable access to drinking water throughout East Africa. Our growing relationships have allowed us to reach more than 189,000 people in countries including Uganda, Rwanda, Tanzania, and Kenya.

We're building upon this successful foundation by engaging additional strategic partners to cooperatively assess, design, manufacture, and implement contextualized solutions throughout the region. HWI has developed a unique implementing partnership with drilling and hydrological experts Water for the World and is currently working on new safe water interventions with partners including OneChild and Hope Haven Rwanda.

Lord willing, we hope to establish an operations team in Kenya that will enable us to develop additional partnerships that leverage our unique strengths around treating water with high-risk contaminants and heavy metals that threaten local waters supplies, including mercury, lead, and arsenic.
